

From Our President

What did you learn over the summer?

Sometimes it is during periods of rest, relaxation and exploration that we are most able to embrace something new. Maybe you read a good book, tried a new activity, or discovered a new technique. One thing I've learned is that NAPO-CT has a terrific group of volunteers! Many people have been hard at work over the past few months on a plethora of initiatives to help you strengthen your business. Last week we kicked off our program year with guest speaker Liz Dederer who taught us about the The 8 Languages of Money. If you couldn't join us, be sure to ask a colleague about our lively discussion. In fact, be sure to mark your calendar now for our upcoming meetings, because if you miss one meeting, you miss a lot! Along those lines, allow me to whet your appetite with this sneak peak into what's coming this fall:

- A custom-designed animation for the landing page of the NAPO-CT website
- A growing presence for NAPO-CT on Facebook and Twitter, featuring blog posts from some of talented members
- Content-rich monthly meetings, featuring "techniques of the trade", information on helpful products & services, and hands-on instruction for growing your business

AND...

- 1st ever NERCPO- New England Regional Conference for Professional Organizers, hosted by NAPO-CT on November 7th in Stamford, CT.

If you haven't yet registered for NERCPO, move this to the top of your priority list. We are gathering together with organizers from all over New England and are looking forward to a wonderful day. Many thanks to our sponsor Shelf Genie, and to NAPO-CT Director of Professional Development Susan O'Connell, who has been hard at work soliciting speakers, vendors and some terrific raffle prizes!

Great things are happening – hope to see you soon!
